Khutbahs, lessons and talks, translated live

The speaker talks. Everyone in the room reads along on their own phone, in their own language. From any language into 100+.

THE CHALLENGE

Not everyone in the room understands what is said

Language divides the room

Converts, visitors, students and young people who grew up abroad miss the heart of the message when it is only in Arabic or one other language.

Interpreters and headsets don’t scale

A volunteer interpreter is hard to find every week, headset systems are expensive, and both cover one or two languages at most.

Deaf and hard-of-hearing people are left out

Without live text of what is said, they cannot follow at all.

LiveKhutbah removes that barrier, every week, in every language in the room.

WHAT IT IS

Every word, in their language, as it is said

A phone near the speaker listens. LiveKhutbah writes down what is said and translates it sentence by sentence. People scan a QR code and read along on their own phone, or on a TV in the room.

HOW IT WORKS

How the words reach everyone in the room

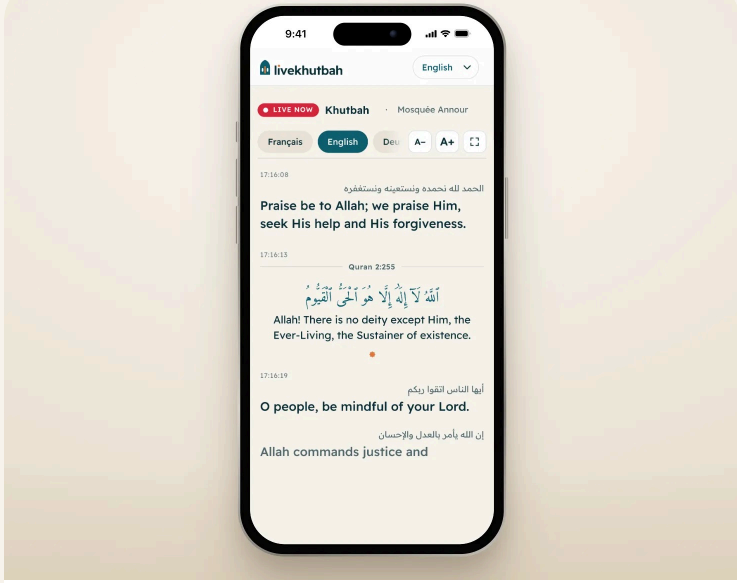

1. Press Go live

Put a phone near the speaker with a clip-on mic, and press Go live. The app listens and translates as they speak.

2. People scan your QR code

Print your roll-up or show it on a screen. People scan it with their camera: no app, no account.

3. They follow in their language

Each person picks their language and reads along live. You can also show it on a TV in the room.

QURAN VERSES

When the speaker quotes the Quran, people read an approved translation

LiveKhutbah recognizes the verse and shows its Arabic text, the surah and verse number, and an approved translation of exactly the part quoted (QuranEnc.com, 44 languages). Not a machine guess.

Quran · Al-Baqarah 2:255

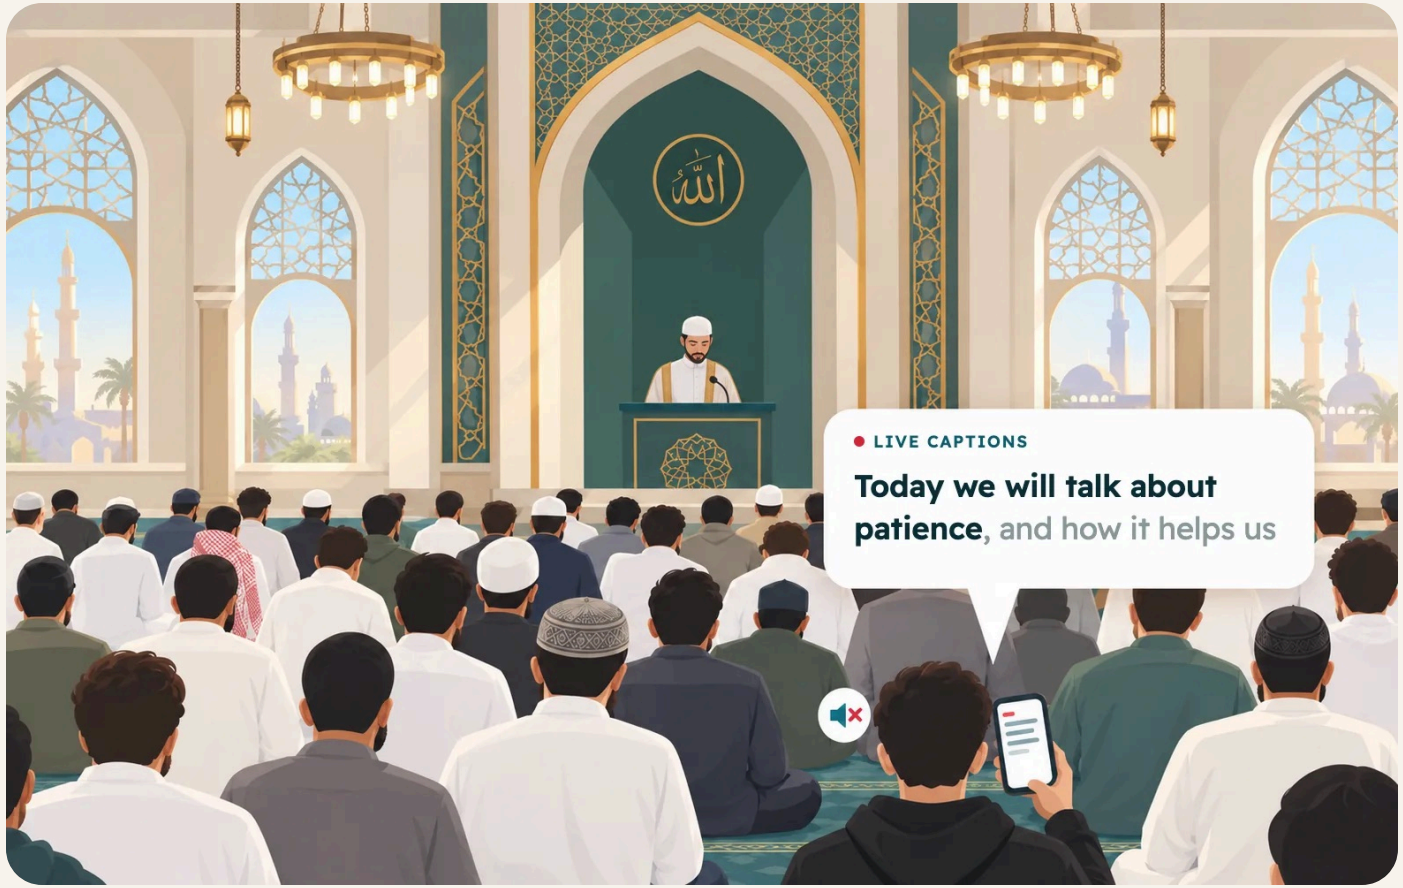

ٱللَّهُ لَآ إِلَٰهَ إِلَّا هُوَ ٱلْحَىُّ ٱلْقَيُّومُ

Allah, there is no deity except Him, the Ever-Living, the Sustainer of all existence.

ACCESSIBILITY

Live captions for deaf and hard-of-hearing people

Every word appears on their phone as it is said, in the speaker’s own language or translated. They can make the text bigger, or show it full screen on a TV.

WHO IT'S FOR

For every gathering where language is a barrier

Mosques

The Friday khutbah, lessons, Ramadan talks.

Schools and madrasas

Classes for students who speak other languages.

Universities

Lectures, seminars and conferences.

Associations and events

Meetings, conferences and community events.

Converts and visitors

Everyone who doesn't fully understand the language spoken.

Deaf and hard of hearing

Live captions in the speaker's own language.

WHAT YOU NEED

A phone, a small mic, and your QR code

1. A phone or tablet near the speaker, with internet.
2. A wireless clip-on mic for the speaker. Its receiver plugs into the phone, so your sound system stays as it is.
3. Your QR code: print the ready-made roll-up or show it on a screen. Both are in the app.
4. Optional: a TV or screen in the room for the translation.

Nothing to install for the people who read along.

PRICING

A 20-minute khutbah costs about $4

The balance goes down per minute of speech. Silence is free. 10 credits = 1 minute of speech, for 1 language.

For mosques and non-profits, anyone, for example a member, can add credit to your balance as support or sadaqa.

QUESTIONS

What people ask us

What do we need?

A phone near the speaker, with an internet connection, and a wireless clip-on mic for them to wear, like the Hollyland Lark M2S (around $100). A TV is optional, because people read the translation on their own phones. If you want, you can also show it on a TV or screen in the room.

Why does the speaker wear a wireless mic?

The mic sits on their collar, close to their mouth, so the phone picks up their voice over the sound of the room. Its receiver plugs into the phone, which means you can leave your sound system as it is.

How do people in the room see the translation?

They scan a QR code with their phone camera, from a poster at the entrance or from the TV if you have one. You can also send them a link. Nobody has to install an app or make an account.

Which languages can we offer?

The app can translate into more than 100 languages.
